As a professional association NAFI works hard to help make member Flight Training Organizations and member Flight Instructors successful. NAFI provides its members tools to increase their effectiveness. With the pilot population decreasing since the 1970s NAFI and its members must strive to reverse that trend by improving the effectiveness of flight training.

Flight Training Organizations and Flight Instructors working together can make this happen. Together we are stronger. NAFI provides its member Flight Training Organizations and member flight instructors access to the tools to retain their students and increase their effectiveness.

"We know from experience that training providers who are engaged with the industry are more successful and provide better service to their customers. Becoming a NAFI FTO member is a good start at becoming engaged."

- Ken Hoffman, Chairman, NAFI Board of Directors

We look forward to working with you to ensure that your membership helps achieve your flight training organization's goals and has the greatest impact on improving aviation. Join NAFI today to start getting information that will make your business and its instructors safer and more successful.

About NAFI

The National Association of Flight Instructors (NAFI) is an association of active flight instructors who work at flight schools, universities, FBO's, corporate flight departments, in the military, and as independent instructors. NAFI serves as a voice for the flight instruction community.

NAFI members influence active pilots daily; pilot training to advance their skills with new ratings or certificates and students working to become pilots. NAFI staff works with industry and government and serves as a voice for flight instruction. NAFI shapes the direction of flight training.

NAFI was founded in 1967 and its members, who now teach in 17 countries, are dedicated to raising and maintaining professionalism of flight instruction.
